Expressions Of Current Events

1973 and 1974 will long be remembered by people in our world of constantly changing social values, morals, and ideas. Serious problems such as pollution, crime, abortion, and poverty seemed to be overlooked as contemporary journalists held the public's attention on Watergate, Spiro Agnew, the Fuel Crisis, and the Arab-Israeli Conflict. Countless contraditions existed concerning youth and the future. Eighteen-year-old voting and majority rights strongly supported the current view of many sociologists that society is becoming more and more youth oriented. Yet, at the same time they were thrusting an endless number of responsibilities on young people, the so-called "establishment" continued to claim that the quality of youth was deteriorating because of their increasing freedom. In school and on their own, students of AHS tried throughout the year to retain knowledge and formulate opinions so that in the years ahead, when they are America's leaders, they will be able to express themselves successfully.

EXIT

Expressions Of Fads And Fashions

Thrusting aside for a moment all of the worries and hangups about world happenings and viewing the students of AHS as a whole, we saw that through numerous fads and fashions, a justifiable desire to be classified like others existed whether it was through activity or appearance. Joining school groups, attending school activities, walking the halls, going to the show, and eating at the Pizza Hut were a few of the means by which we satisfied our needs to "do what everybody else is doing." We also found a certain satisfaction in conforming to the changing trends in appearance. Student Council spirit pins, blue jeans or overalls, snorkle coats, long johns during the winter, and plaid flannel shirts all represented current fads. As Thomas Mann said, "A man lives not only his personal life, as an individual, but also, consciously or unconsciously, the life of his epoch and his contemporaries." This was true of AHS students who enjoyed, to a certain extent, expressing themselves through similar fads and fashions.

Expressions Of Individuality

Just as no two sunsets were alike, no two people were alike. In the midst of current events and conforming with fads and fashions, every person was in search of something within himself that made him different from everyone else. Some students expressed individuality through their achievements because not everybody could do a double flip on the tramp, hit high "c" on the trumpet, type 70 words a minute, or get an "A" in government. Others expressed their individuality by what they did; like being a male telephone operator, eating fourteen pretzels in one minute, jogging a mile every morning, pulling the fire alarm, or forgetting to bring football pants for the game. Hopefully, each member of the group we call "youth" will be given the chance to identify some unique talent or favorable characteristic that he possesses and begin to express himself through this talent to others.

ACADEMIC

Expressions . . . Expressions . . . People involved academically express themselves like this . . . all those Mickey Mouse things . . . let's recycle our report cards . . . bueno . . . you mean you've been in that class for a year and you still don't know what MIA stands for . . . I'm not joking . . . do you follow me . . . smells like the chemistry class is making the hot lunch today . . . nice try, but no bananas . . . stupid bells . . . the grade you gave me grieved my mother whose pride I am . . . what a pain . . . I just washed my students and I can't do a thing with them . . . that's obviously trivial . . . I have studied this subject from the broad, philosophical point of view and therefore was unable to answer your technical catch questions . . . we should get graded for study hall – I'm the most active participator . . . impeach the teacher . . . I'm not going to dissect a frog . . . give me a break . . . of the 731 students in this school, I have to be the one that gets hacked on . . . I think we have an epidemic among the students – diarrhea of the mouth . . . I'm gonna jack the next person that pulls the fire alarm . . .

Administration Faces Problems of Financing Education

The 1973-74 School Board and Administration faced the ever increasing problem of inflation. The low cost per pupil in the Atlantic School System left little room for errors and extras when the budget for the school year was laid out.

The cost per pupil in Atlantic for the past year was $785. This figure was the second lowest in the entire state. The school board has always maintained the policy of prudent spending in order to eliminate waste and obtain greater efficiency. The cost of operation came from the following general fund receipts: 51% of the total budget is received from local taxes, this being in the sum of $987,520; 46% from state taxes in the sum of $900,410; 2.5% from federal taxes in the sum of $49,702; and the remaining .5% from miscellaneous revenue.

A major problem facing our school is that the state revenue plan places the possible district expenditure in a direct relationship to the enrollment, when in fact this relationship is not a direct one at the local level.

1. John Hunter, superintendent of the Atlantic school system, makes important decisions which run the school.
2. As director of special services, Glenn Binfield controls the bussing of students.
3. Students rush to get their admit slips before first period.
4. The 1973-74 School Board members are: First Row: Mrs. Lippencott, Superintendent John Hunter, and Secretary Edith Shank. Second: William Beatty, President Dick Cook, Bruce Behrends, and Keith Robinson.
5. Rollin Dyer, vice principal, helps out when the going gets tough in the office.
6. Del Neary, junior high principal keeps the seventh and eighth grades under control.
7. Carrying out the laws of school policy is the job of Principal Darrell Eblen.

English: Not Too Foreign To Students

The objectives common in English classes are to achieve correctness in writing, comprehension, and to broaden a student's understanding of himself. As freshmen and sophomores, English 9 and English 10 are required. As juniors and seniors, the students may choose from the many electives. These electives include composition, literature, speech, mass media, individualized reading, and stage production. Different machines aided the teachers in explaining to their students, such as video tapes, films, opaque projectors, and record players. No new English course text books were added to the department this year.

English was not all classroom work as many classes took trips or had projects outside of class. The freshman Honor English class while studying the play "Romeo and Juliet" also attended the movie at the downtown theater. This enabled them to see differences between the play and the movie and obtain a better understanding of it. Mass media students traveled to Omaha to visit KETV and see the activities in a television station. During December modern oral communication students read stories to grade school children during their modern oral class period.

Just as students have their favorite subjects, teachers have their favorite subjects to teach. Mrs. Swaney, an English teacher, commented, "My favorite subject to teach is Mass Media as there is always something new to talk about."

Vocal and Instrumental Music Departments developed the students musical talent. Time and practice were important factors in producing top notch performances. Contests, in addition to performances provided goals toward which students worked throughout the year.

Drivers Education was a must for those sophomores and juniors wanting their drivers licenses. Students learned the skills and techniques of safe driving in the classroom, and applied them during periods of actual driving under the instructor's supervision. Cars were provided by the local car dealers.

Latin and Spanish were the available foreign language courses. This year the Latin students were able to choose from the variety of topics for individual work. The course was offered for either a semester or a full year. Because of sufficient interest this year Spanish III was offered in addition to Spanish I and II. Those six students which enrolled in the advanced course were, for the first time, allowed to go to the grade schools once a week and teach Spanish to the elementary students.

Imagination and creativity are qualities that were stressed in Art Class. Art students could often be seen with some strange substance on their hands, from the materials used in capturing ideas on paper, canvass, or often anything that was handy. Lettering. scratch board. and posters were a few of the projects completed in art class.

Physical Education class provided an outlet for the energies and frustrations stored up during the day. Students participated in such varied activities as football, scooter football, soccer, battleball, softball, gymnastics, and jumping rope.

2. Miss Heflin explains the rules of jumping rope to Cathy Hjortshoj.

Algebra, Geometry, And Calculus Add Up To The Math Department

Although only one year of math was required for graduation, the department offered enough courses to last through the senior year. The courses varied from mini courses to calculus. The mini courses included geometric construction, statistics, math for leisure, construction trades, slide rule, survey, probability, and math for girls. Math for leisure appeared to be the most popular mini course as it used mathematical applications in games. Many students wished to have completed both MIA and calculus after their senior year. By skipping algebra II and taking modern coordinate geometry, MIA, and calculus they were able to do this yet still obtained the general knowledge of algebra II. Bob Parham, a student who took this program said, "You get a lot more done in a lot less time and avoid repetition." Four years of high school math benefit students in careers from home economics to engineering.

Classes Learn From Labs And Lectures

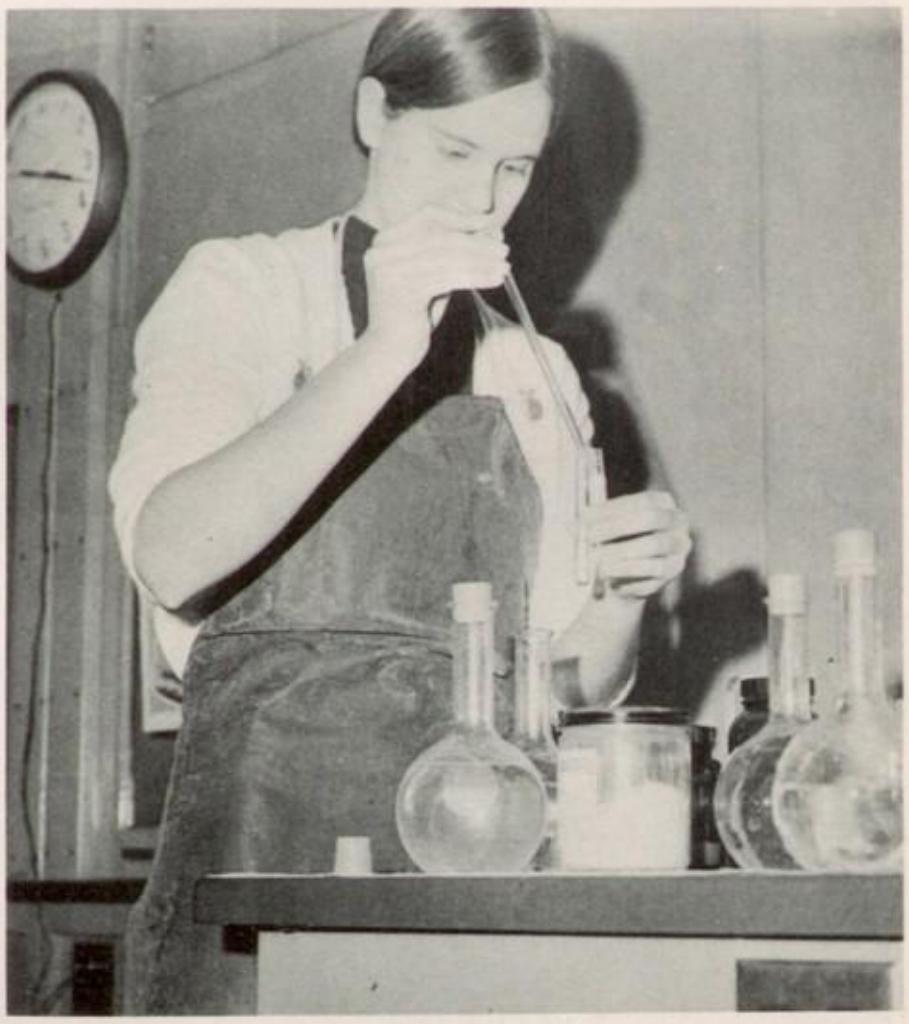
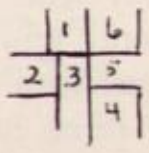
The Science department in AHS is guided by the services of Mr. Clauson, Biology; Mr. Lewis, Chemistry and Physics; and Mr. Niemann, Earth Science and Introductory Physical Science.

Earth Science was offered as an elective course for freshmen. Fossils and ways of determining the age of rocks were some of the topics explained. The many lab exercises conducted in Biology kept the students on their toes. Dissections of worms and frogs increased the students knowledge of the living world. Chemistry and Physics were classes which the juniors and seniors always looked forward to. Between Mr. Lewis' acrobatic acts of standing on chairs and his Pollock jokes the students were always kept awake. (Well, almost all). Between the formulas and equations, chemistry students were forced to keep up with studies.

Mr. Barnes and Mr. Burnett introduced life science to the seventh graders. Labs and lectures changed the standard routine. Eighth grade physical science, taught by Mr. Mathias and Mr. Barnes, increased the students knowledge on the metric system and simple machines.





1. Wendy Carlson is busy at work with Chemistry lab.
2. Mr. Nieman helps Jay Schrader and Lisa Larson with the identification of a mineral.
3. Jim Shahan works individually with his experiment.
4. Jody Zellmer takes a break from her Biology lab.
5. Mark Bortle and Mark Stuetelberg concentrate on their lab experiment.
6. Seventh graders look over their lab exercise.

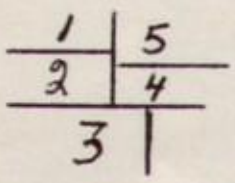
5. Mark Karwal examines the globe.



The Social Studies Department, headed by Francis Hofmeyer, is in a time of extensive change. Mr. Hofmeyer commented that the Social Studies Department is converting to as much of an elective program as staff and facilities permit, with an increasing amount of emphasis on current events. This is exemplified by the addition of two new courses: Current Problems and Issues, and 20th Century World History.

Current Problems and Issues is concentrating primarily on what is happening "now," using two newspapers and several current news magazines for references. 20th Century World History is an intense study of the United Soviet Socialists Republic, the Peoples Republic of China, and Germany with special emphasis on Nazism, the Middle East, and the Arab-Israeli conflict.

Mr. Hofmeyer also commented that the department is also trying to introduce more behavioral science courses in addition to sociology and psychology, which are already on the curriculum. Another new addition to the Social Studies Department is that of Paul Massman, who took over the job of teaching 9th grade History and Psychology.

Vocational Education And Practical Arts Ready Students For The Future

In the area of Vocational Arts, many practical courses were offered which were designed for all students regardless of their immediate objectives after high school.

The Home Economics Department was an area of change with the addition of a new course of study. The students selected four out of six areas to examine. Each of these four areas was then concentrated upon for one quarter. Some of the choices included: sewing, foods, family living, meal planning, child development, and home furnishings.

The Business Education Department provided training for students preparing to enter the business world, as well as for those intending to study business on a post high school level. Some courses such as Typing and Bookkeeping proved beneficial to the individual student for his own personal use. Students also benefited from new, updated books in General Business and Business Law.

The Industrial Arts Department instructed those students aimed toward occupations requiring skill and ingenuity. Students had nine week alternations between classroom and shop. Some areas studied consisted of carpentry, sheet metal, mechanical drawing, and welding.

Vocational Agriculture also included shop work in addition to classroom activities. Students examined such areas as animal science, agricultural mechanics, crop and soil science, farm management, and agricultural occupation employment experience. The Vocational Agriculture Program was designed for students entering directly into farming, as well as those planning to enter an agriculturally related business. This was the second year girls have been able to participate in this program. When asked if she felt her experience was worthwhile, Vicki Templeman commented, "Vocational Agriculture is worthwhile in preparing a girl for a future life on the farm; and if she is not aimed toward the farm, it is also a very good background for other jobs."

Librarians, Counselors, And Secretaries

Help AHS Run Efficiently

Even though the librarians, counselors, and secretaries seemed to be overlooked at times, they played a vital role in the working of AHS. The learning resource center, previously known as the library and study hall, had much material available for the inquisitive student.

A number of new tapes and filmstrips were acquired so classes were able to use more audio-visual aids this year. The counselors helped adjust and change schedules as well as help students with emotional problems. Higher education night, evening hours, and vocational exploration groups were changes brought into the guidance department this year. High school secretaries handled such duties as writing out admit slips and advance make-ups, while the superintendents' secretaries were kept busy by keeping the books straight and filling out orders.

During the day, special education students were taught in the junior high building by Ruby Woodring and Richard McLaren. The special education department consisted of subjects similar to those taught in junior high. Also vocational skills such as sewing and typing were learned by the students.

Non-Academic Personnel Help AHS Run Smoothly

The cooking staff tackled a larger job than most people realized. Their mornings started at 8:00 with the preparation of the daily menu. This work had to be done by 10:00 in order to get the food buses loaded for the elementary lunch program. Serving over sixteen hundred meals a day required many supplies. Shipments of government supplies came about four times a year, and regular supply shipments came nearly every other day.

Each season brought new tasks for the janitors. In the summer, constant repairs, scrubbing, waxing, and painting kept the janitors occupied. The football practice fields and stadium required extensive upkeep in the fall. With the coming of winter, snow removal and keeping the furnace in working condition were just a few tedious tasks the janitors tackled. At the close of the school year, yard work added to the regular duties of sweeping, dusting, and cleaning blackboards.

The bus drivers delivered approximately 750 students per day. There were 18 buses to cover 15 routes. The major responsibilities for the bus drivers were to keep the students under control and provide students with the greatest possible safety.

Homecoming 1973 proved to be an exciting experience not only for the queen and her attendants, but for everyone who attended Homecoming activities.

On Friday, October 5, a queen assembly was held in the high school auditorium with the theme "Saturday Morning Cartoons." The queen candidates were escorted on to the stage by their fathers and were surrounded by cartoon figures of the Pink Panther, Bugs Bunny, Mickey Mouse, and Donald Duck. Then following the queen's assembly, a pep assembly was held to urge the Trojans to a victory over the Glenwood Rams.

That night, Susan Diaz was named 1973 Homecoming Queen and was crowned by Jill Clemens, 1972 Queen. Also the 21 - 18 victory over the Glenwood Rams made the night very exciting for the queen, the team, and the football fans.

On Saturday night, those attending danced to the music of Trojan Horse and enjoyed the decorations throughout the gym of the many scenes of "Saturday Morning Cartoons."

Promgoers Take A "Journey Through Time"

"Journey Through Time" was the theme of the 1974 Junior-Senior Prom which was held on April 27. Pre-prom was held from 7:30 to 8:30 at the Elks Club. At 9:00 the formal dance began at the high school. The music was provided by Roadhouse. The gym was decorated showing different eras of time dating from prehistoric man to the future. At 1:00 the movie "Ace High" was shown and allowed tired upperclassmen a chance to sleep. After the movie, the couples proceeded to the Country Club where they danced and tried their luck at various games. Breakfast was then served and the tired seniors headed for home while the juniors dismantled their "Journey Through Time!"

Prom was not made up of just the events which were described previously. When some juniors were asked what they would remember most about Prom, they responded like this:

"Probably all the fun in decorating and hurrying to get done, then having to tear it all down at 6:00 in the morning on Sunday."

— Carol Bebensee

"The dance, the decorations, the music, and most of all the people; spending a fun-filled evening with friends."

SES Leads to Future

A major change this year in FTA was that the organizations name was changed. Students for Educational Services, or more commonly SES, became the new title. First semester SES members acted as guides for Open House and Parent-Teacher Conferences. During the second semester, the members were offered a chance to student teach in grade schools. Several meetings were spent discussing current problems affecting teachers. Through many activities and parties, SES had an enjoyable year.

When asked her opinion, Kathy Six replies, "SES main purpose is not just for teachers, but for anyone interested in school affairs. Last year I student taught at Washington School for the third grade for 50 hours. It was work, but a lot of fun."

For Future Nurses Only

Despite meeting only once a month, the Future Nurses Club accomplished many goals in the 73-74 school year. The year started with a lecture from a career representative of Nebraska Methodist School of Nursing. In November the club visited the Mental Health Center and the Dental Clinic. Throughout the year service projects were carried out. One such project was giving food to a needy family at Christmas time. A local doctor spoke at the January meeting and a police force representative showed a film on drugs in February. Toward the end of the year FNC took their field trip and a mother-daughter tea was held. With solid planning and determined leadership, FNC had an eventful year.

1. Student teaching is an important part of SES.
2. SES advisor is Mr. Hiemstra.

FFA And FHA Provide

The Atlantic Future Homemakers of America hosted the annual district meeting which was presided over by District President Nancy Morrow of Atlantic. The group started their years' activities by holding a spagetti supper for new freshmen members, followed by the sale of carmeled apples in the refreshment stands at home games. The Christmas season found the FHA decorating trees on the first floor of the school and selling Christmas candles and candy. Foreign exchange student Erik Latour was the guest speaker at one of the monthly meetings, and another meeting was a sledding party at Jody Zellmer's farm. The years activities were highlighted by a field trip in the spring.

Worthwhile Opportunities

The Atlantic chapter of The Future Farmers of America was, for the first time, able to boast a state president from their own chapter – Steve Olsen. Jeff Lowers represented Atlantic on the district level as District Secretary, and all the members upheld the chapter's high standard of leadership and activity. The livestock and the soil judging teams both took top honors in various judging meets. The chapter set a new record in citrus fruit sales and took part in such community service projects as making flower holders for distribution on Memorial Day and maintaining wild plant identification signs at Pellett Woods. Several members attended the state convention which was held in Davenport.

GRA Is Extracurricular Exercise For Girls

Denise Larsen, with the help of Miss Heflin and Mrs. Hiemstra, headed the Girl's Recreation Association this year. One hundred twenty-six girls joined to make it the club with the highest membership.

Members who joined GRA for the first time were forced to be initiated. The girls wore lipstick, rolled up pantlegs, bobby socks, and a ribbon in their hair. If these specifications were not met, the girls suffered the consequences.

The first meeting was a carnival. The water balloon fight turned out to be a big success even though many girls went home dripping wet. As the snow came the girls got out their sleighs and did some sleigh riding. The members took their yearly trip to the Girl's State Basketball Tournament in March. In the spring mothers were invited to a picnic. An after-game dance was also sponsored by GRA. After the dance the girls had a slumber party in the gym. The movie "Ski Party" was shown and they spent the night playing games and talking.

Fiestas And Amigos Make Up The Spanish Club

The Spanish Club consisted of fifteen second and third year Spanish students. Judy Underwood presided over the club and Mr. Seufert served as advisor. Speaking the language, trying the different foods, and learning the customs of Spain were the projects covered by the club.

At one meeting the members played charades in Spanish. Among the sayings were: Carlos Cafe (Charlie Brown), Esta Susana en casa? (Is Susan at home?), and el bueno, el malo, y el feo (the good, the bad, and the ugly). The December meeting consisted of a fiesta with all types of Spanish food. Members tried octopus, snail, tacos, gaspacho(soup), and flan(pudding). Mr. Seufert showed slides of Mexico and Spain for the club. From the slides they were able to see what Spain was really like.

Terri Robinson, a Spanish Club member, commented, "Spanish Club is using what we've learned in Spanish and really enjoying it."

The Y-Teen cabinet had a summer planning session at Lake Okiboji. The various projects the Y-Teens undertook included a 7:00 a.m. Kidnap Breakfast for the freshman girls, the school Thanksgiving Assembly, a day of painting stadium trash cans, selling insurance against soaping and tee-peeing on Halloween, a slumber party, sending gifts to secret capsul pals, and a visit to the legislature.

The first program was highlighted by a fashion show displaying clothes from prehistoric times up to the times of today. At the last program, the Y-Teens presented teachers with various awards for specific talents.

The Hi-Y was sponsored by Mr. Messer and Mr. Simms. Many of the boys gave up their free Sundays in order to coach and referee the powder-puff football games. The boys also sold pop at basketball games. Working with the Y-Teens for Winter Ball was another big project for the Hi-Y boys.

Student Council Strives For Improvement

Under the guidance of President Jim Diaz, the 1973-1974 Student Council had another busy and meaningful year. During the first weeks of school, the Council was working diligently on such projects as open study hall, visitation to Creston, and sending birthday cards to members of the faculty. As the year progressed, the Council could be found planning and organizing additional projects; among them, Penny Day, Student Teaching Day, mini courses, an ecology assembly, Freak Week, a KIOA High Hooper basketball game, a Fun Night, a Hobby Night, and finally the Spring Dance. Many projects that the Student Council undertook never really saw light because of insufficient funds, inadequate facilities, and student apathy.

Debator's Skills Are Put To The Test

A lot of effort and outside work paid off for the debators making it a worthwhile experience. The 73-74 season lasted from September to March with the team placing four times in fifteen tournaments. This year's topic to be resolved was: That the Federal Government would provide a minimum annual income for each family unit. On December 8, Atlantic High School hosted 35 schools in its third annual debate tournament.

Judy Underwood spent her summer months representing the United States in Karditsa, Greece. Judy's father was a car and insurance salesman and her mother a housewife. Judy spent much of her time with her teenage sister and twelve-year-old brother. Foods Judy enjoyed included goat's-milk cheese, fresh fruits, and macaroni pie. Judy made many lasting friendships both with Greeks and other AFS'ers. Judy commented, "The boy-girl relationships tended to be on a group basis rather than pairing off." She also noted that the Greeks seem to worry less about time and schedules than Americans.

Arbois, France was Steve Swanson's summer home. Steve's father was a head waiter in a hotel who had a son and daughter, ages two and three. "The people take their time and have fewer worries," commented Steve. Steve enjoyed playing scrabble despite his handicap of not knowing a word of French. Also he and his mother spent much time socializing with the French people at nightclubs.

Erik Latour, of Gieleen, Netherlands, resided with the Einer Juel family. Although he had already graduated, Erik wished to come to the United States to learn about the American people, politics, and society. Erik's only trouble in learning English was the use of slang. After returning to the Netherlands, Erik plans to direct and produce movies.

The Rotary exchange student was Chris Clarke of Australia. Chris stayed with the Ted Wickman family. Like previous exchange students, Chris was impressed with snow. At his Australian home, Chris was captain of the cricket and baseball teams, and also competed in other sports.

Fifteen seniors were inducted into the National Honor Society in January. Each student went through the traditional ceremony of the tapping, candle lighting, and saying of the oath before the student body. Membership was based on leadership, service, character, and scholarship in academic and extracurricular activities.

The Honor Society encouraged all students to submit their creative writings to the Torch, the literary magazine published by the Society. In each issue of the Needle an outstanding senior not in the organization was honored by the NHS members. Tom Mason presided over the society with Susan Diaz and Annette Patterson serving as vice-presidents. Tami Bell took the job of secretary and the advisor was Mr. Lyons.

The procedure of inducting Juniors was new this year. All Junior members were inducted at Class Night. These Juniors then took over the National Honor Society.

Thespians Add Culture To AHS

Under the leadership of Susan Howard and Mr. Hascall, Thespians managed to involve themselves in different projects. Helping with debate tournaments, going to Speech Contest, putting on the drama festival, and helping with the musical "The Boyfriend", were some of the activities which highlighted the Thespians' year. The highlight of the year was going to the Des Moines Community Playhouse to see the musical "The Sound of Music."

Science Club Explores Unknown

Despite the small size of the Science Club this year, many worthwhile projects were carried out. Atlantic was one of the twenty schools entered in the district speech contest in Anita where Atlantic students received twenty-two I ratings out of twenty-eight entries. In state competition, thirteen I ratings were received by the Atlantic entries.

Awards, superior rated speeches, and a one-act play all played a part in making this year's Drama Festival a hit. The Technical Achievement Award, which goes to the most active person behind the scene of a play, was presented to Denise Ohms for set design in "The Boyfriend". Karl Catlin and Sarah Wohlenhaus received the Best Actor and Actress Awards respectively. # "The Boyfriend" Sparks Laughter At AHS

"The Boyfriend" is a witty, stylish cartoon of the Jazz Age. Adding to its unique humorous style, it spoofs the mechanics of old-style operetta using flapper-type music and lyrics.

The story is written by Sandy Wilson. The setting is the French Riviera in 1926. Polly, a millionaire's daughter, is attending Mme Dubonnet's fashionable finishing school. She falls in love with Tony, a delivery boy, who of course turns out to be the son of Lord Brockhurst, another millionaire.

The musical is a good-humored, tuneful, and affectionate valentine to the innocence and high spirits of the Charleston, Cloche hat and short skirt days.

The sets for all three acts were designed by Joan Weresh and Robin Weddum and painted by Denise Ohms, Linda Paul, Sherri Smith, Sheila Smith, and Terri Steffens; the set director was Dwight Grantham. Music was provided by Delma Wright on the piano and Judy Underwood on percussion. Renee Mallon was the choreographer and Thane Hascall directed. Miss Wright was also in charge of all musical numbers.

The Bands Go Marching On

Early morning practices, hard work, determination, dedication, and a lot of practicing all added up to success for members of the Atlantic High School Marching Band. The band proved this by receiving second in the Iowa State Fair Marching Contest and a Division I rating in the State Marching Contest at Creston. The band also showed what these qualities can do by putting on top quality half-time shows at home football games. In addition to putting on pre-game and half-time shows, the marching band added a lot of enthusiasm in cheering the Trojans to victory.

The pep band, which was made up of members of concert band, adds a lot of enthusiasm and an air of excitement to home basketball games. Playing familiar songs such as "Loyalty," "On Atlantic," "Hogan's Heroes," and "Get It On" helped in increasing excitement and promoting school spirit.

The prep band was made up of freshmen, and the purpose of prep band was to prepare instrumentalists for Marching and Concert Bands. The prep band performed a football game half-time show. ## Take A Swinging Safari

The 1974 Stage Show was entitled "Swinging Safari". Along with the Safari Guide, Denise Ohms, the bands traveled through the jungles of musical melody. Above the sounds of the monkeys, birds, elephants, and natives, such melodies as "Just You 'N Me," "Alla Barocco," and "The Blues" by the concert band and "Morning After" and "Time In A Bottle" by the concert choir were heard. There were also several solos heard as Ned Kluever sang "Cabaret", "Sweet Gypsy Rose" by Alan Jacobsen, and also "Delta Dawn" by Anne Lippincott. Extra efforts by everyone made the 1974 Stage Show a "swinging" Swinging Safari.

Journalists Record the Events

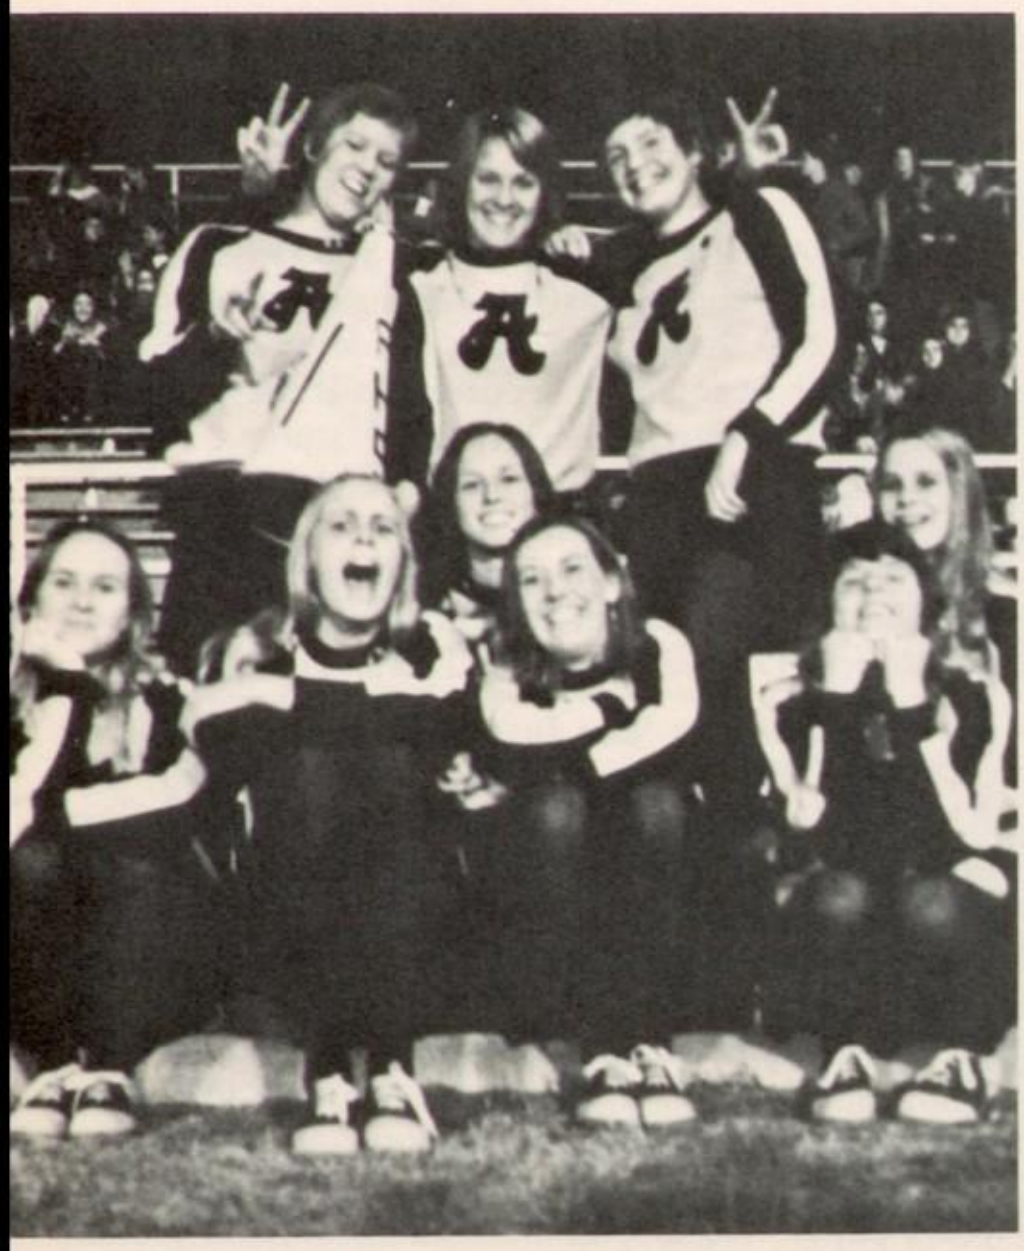
The JAVELIN, sponsored by Mr. Dwight Grantham, strives to express the feelings and moods of the students throughout the school year. By recording the events and occurrences it also hopes to give an accurate description of student life at AHS. The JAVELIN members are required to take and develop pictures, compose copy, and create their own layouts. Although sometimes rushed, the students are able to meet deadlines with the help of co-editors, Dalene Stangl and Tim Hoegh.

Sponsored by Miss Jeanne Howorth and led by co-editors Tom Mason and Susan Howard, the NEEDLE tackles the job of revealing the day-to-day life of students in bi-weekly issues. The NEEDLE contains a variety of stories including news features, humorous anecdotes, editorials, sport stories, and many others. Each member is given an assignment for which he must compose copy and take pictures if necessary. Miss Howorth stated that this years staff was a very close knit group and worked together exceptionally well. A change made in this years paper was to put the student opinion section on a voluntary basis rather than to ask certain students to submit their opinions.

Cheerleaders Spur The Trojans On To Victories



In the spring of 1973, tryouts for any previous junior varsity cheerleader wishing to be on the varsity cheering squad were held before the faculty, which chose ten basketball and ten wrestling cheerleaders. These twenty girls each performed in front of the student body enabling the students to choose five basketball and five wrestling cheerleaders to represent Atlantic for the upcoming year. During the summer, the girls spent much time practicing cheers and chants under Miss Heflin's supervision. In the fall, the basketball and wrestling squads combined to cheer through the football season.

To boost spirit, the cheerleaders painted pep signs, planned pep assemblies, and urged people to attend the games. By attending a cheerleading clinic at Iowa State University, the girls were able to get new ideas and improve upon old ones.

The junior varsity cheerleaders are those interested in learning the varsity cheers and preparing to try out for varsity. These girls cheered for freshman games and the junior varsity football, wrestling, and basketball games.

The girls softball team turned in a 16-8 record this season and placed fourth in the Hawkeye Eight race with an 8-6 mark. Denise Larsen and Tonja Hoyt had leading batting averages with .436 and .424 respectively. New records were Knop's four triples, Allen's three homers, Hoyt's 16 bases on balls, and Allen's 30 hits, 47 strikeouts, and 17 walks in the pitching department.

The team won the sectionals for the second year in the two year softball history of Atlantic. Only three games separated the team from state when it was defeated by Glenwood.

This was the first year Trojan Heads were given to the softballers. The recipients were the all conference selections: Tonja Hoyt, first team catcher; Denise Larsen, second team outfielder; Sandra Knop, second team first base; and Susan Allen, second team pitcher.

Susan Allen exclaimed, "The season was a 100% improvement over last year, even though one of the major activities was out running the bull snake that lived in center field!"

Selected to all conference teams were Steve Willms, first team shortstop; Bill Bennett, second team pitcher; and Brad Barlow, second team catcher.

Freshman Gridders Undefeated

The freshman football squad went undefeated this year, outscoring their opponents 109 to 14. The team shut-out Creston, Harlan, and Red Oak, and allowed Clarinda and Shenandoah only one touchdown each.

The offense, which depended primarily on a strong rushing game, was led by Steve Claggett who accumulated 498 yards on the ground. Steve also led the scoring with six touchdowns. Dan Hoegh was the next leading rusher with 396 yards and two touchdowns. Jay Becker also had three touchdowns. Dave King was the primary pass receiver, but yardage on passes was very small.

Wrestlers Stick Opposition

The diligent work of coaches Lynn Barnes and Joel Simms paid off for the Trojan varsity grapplers. After going through the killer drills, the sweating and starving, and the endless running of steps, they were able to turn in a season record of 7-4 for dual competitions. The season provided many experiences and memories for the 1974 matmen. Among them was the selection of Alan Gangestad and Dick Nichols as team co-captains. The team later felt the absence of Dick Nichols and Mark Swanson as they were out for the season with injuries. Some of the varsity wrestlers exhibiting individual talent were: Mike Westering, 22-4; Mark Swanson, 10-3; Craig Both, 13-7; and Steve Sandbothe, 16-10.

Waughmen Post 11-7 For Season

The 1974 Trojan basketball season provided constant thrills for the students of AHS. The men of Troy became well known for their seemingly superhuman efforts during the final period of play which brought them both elation and anguish. The two most intense agonies were the 2-point defeats in overtime by Harlan, who later made it into the state tournament.

Those Trojan cagers receiving special recognition were: Kendall Anderson – unanimous choice for first team all conference and named to the fifth state team by the Iowa Daily Press Association, Chuck Smith – second team all conference, and Dave Becker – honorable mention all conference.

Tenth Graders' Attitudes Change

How has your attitude toward school changed during your sophomore year?

It hasn't changed much, but it is kind of a dead year and I'm looking forward to being a junior.
– Jeff Allen

I've become more serious about school and I'm able to express my individuality better.
– Paula Bacon

I've started to worry about my grades less.
– Doug Cooper

I'm preparing more for future years.
– Toni Robinson

Feeling the seniority of my sophomore year, I feel simply silly sitting solemnly sucking my slick strawberry sucker while slumped sideways in study hall shooting spit wads at Senor Seufert and sometimes sketching stupid skits of sophisticated seniors standing catty-cornered. Summing up my attitude towards school, it is shifting.

NCA Evaluation Team Analyzes AHS

What do you feel were the advantages of the NCA evaluation?

"I believe the most valuable aspect of the NCA evaluation was the time spent by the faculty, administration, and community resource persons in self evaluation for nearly a year before the NCA evaluation teams visitation. This self-evaluation required that we work with one another to analyze our objections, methods, and materials."

— Thane Hascall

"One big benefit of the visitation was the chance to get a neutral third opinion. The self-evaluation is good to do, but there are hazards with it; too many of us wear rose-colored glasses when we are looking at our own work. The review and evaluation we did should get us to keep changing instead of getting self-satisfied and complacent. The final report should provide us with a series of bench marks to use to gauge our progress so far and for future progress."

— Paul Massman

"Evaluation means that once in seven years representatives of the community are called upon to state what seems to them to be the goals of Atlantic. Then a statement of the goals of the Atlantic schools is set down and each member of the administration and faculty states the goals toward which he is directing his efforts. We all took a serious look to see whether these specific goals were adequate and whether in actual practice – we were pulling together for the benefit of the young people."

Junior High Student Council Makes Decision Concerning Student Government

The 1973-1974 Junior High Student Council was headed by President Laura Parker and advised by Del Neary. The council met every other Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. to discuss new ideas and take care of business. Two parties were sponsored this year in which games and dancing were included. The council also helped with the Penny Day collection. A new idea this year was to provide a suggestion box to let students voice their opinions on ways to improve the Junior High.

Cheerleaders Boost Baby Trojans On

The Junior High continued for a second year the policy of allowing all girls to participate in cheerleading. The girls may select which games they wish to cheer at and whom they want to cheer with. Ten girls, with five coming from each grade, participate at each game. The duties of the cheerleaders consist of making pep signs and putting on skits for each assembly. This year there were 25 eighth graders and 30 seventh graders in the program. Next year they hope to receive more uniforms in order to have more cheerleaders at each game.

Sixty-eight seventh graders reported to Coaches Gail Casey and Richard Casady at the beginning of the season. An impressive record was turned in by the seventh graders with four straight victories. In some instances the seventh grade had to play the No. two eighth grade team from another town. The seventh graders rallied 78 points to the opponents' 12.

Fifty eighth graders reported to Coach Jerry Waugh and Coach Clyde Hovick with a goal of going undefeated in Junior High football. A record of three wins and one loss was turned in with the loss coming against Shenandoah. Darrell Paulsen provided powerful running from his fullback position and Phil Allen aided the aerial game with his accurate passing.

Junior High Cagers Show Teamwork

The seventh graders, under the coaching of Clyde Hovick and Dick Casady, posted a 6-2 season. Both losses were against Harlan. Because in the first game Harlan trounced Atlantic 39-18, the cagers sought revenge and came through in the second game with a score of 35-32. Scoring was evenly distributed as proof of outstanding teamwork. The top scorers were Jim Mallon with 69, Tom Mally with 35, and Scott Jepperson with 29. Rebounding greedily with their height advantage were Jim Mallon, Doug McNary, Eugene Schmeling, and Scott Jepperson.

Coach Gail Casey and his eighth graders turned in a 4-4 season. Harlan was also a heart-breaking game for the eighth grade. Atlantic led by one point with only a few seconds left in the game, when a midcourt shot won the game for Harlan. Darrell Paulsen topped the scoring list with 103 points, followed by Phil Allen with 89, and Allen Heath with 35. Freethrows were a strong point for the eighth graders as they hit nearly 50 per cent. The team made 35% of their field goals, and leading rebounders were Darrell Paulsen and Pat Hayes.

Jr. High Intramurals Developes Skills

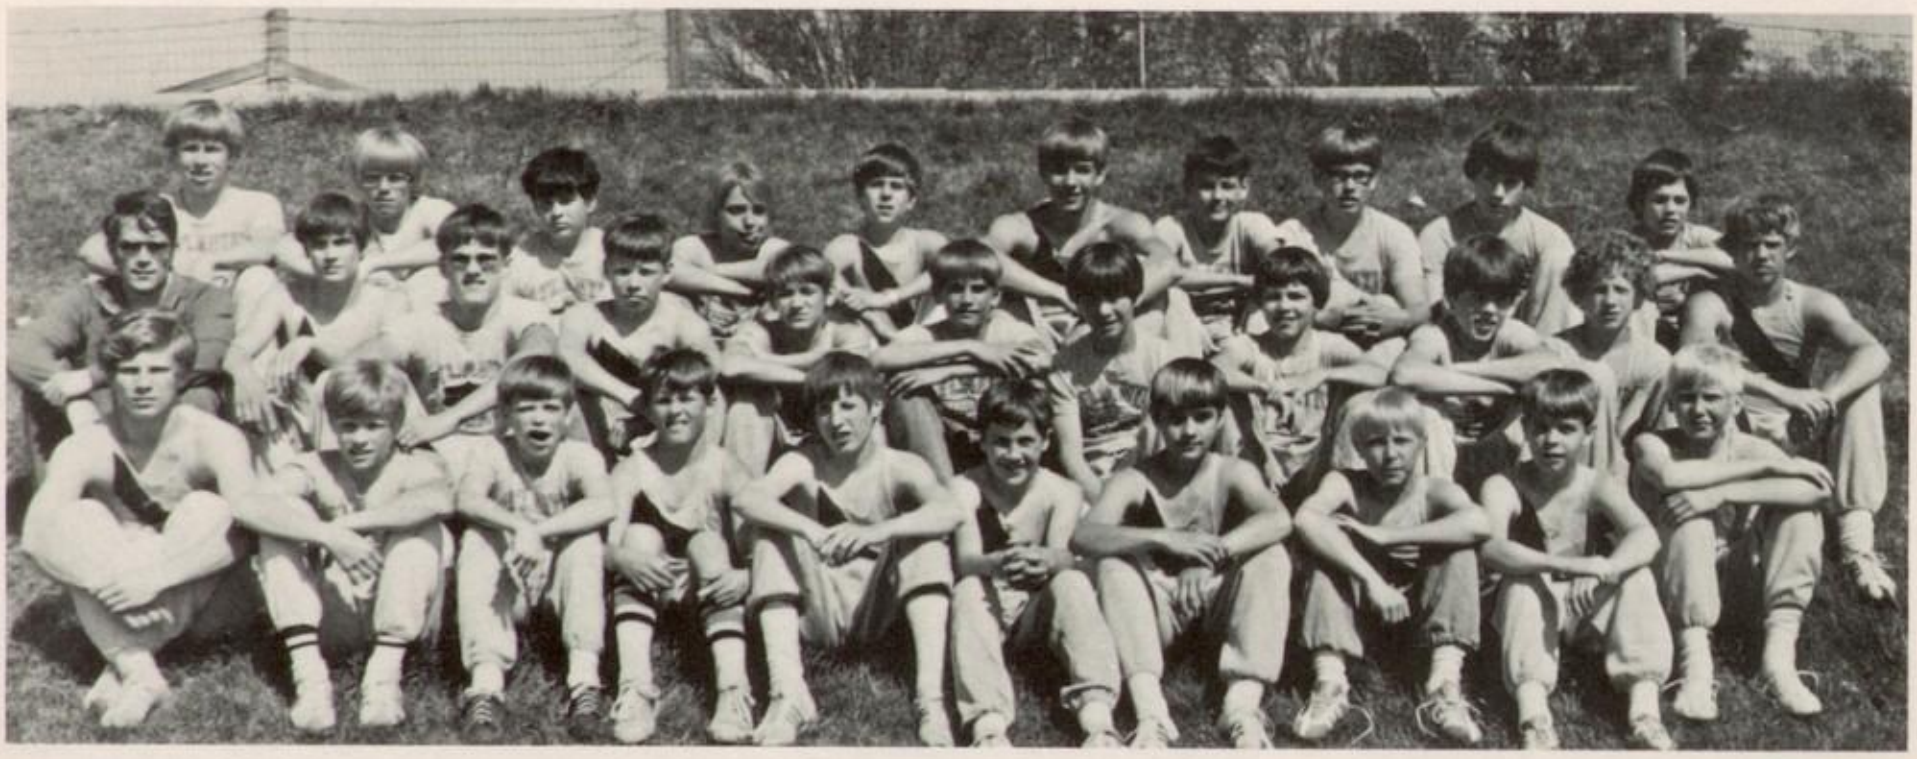
The Jr. High wrestling program is headed by Coach Gail Casey. With the help of Coach Chuck Burnett, the wrestlers were taught some of the basic fundamentals of wrestling along with rules and scoring. The wrestlers were given a chance to put what they learned in practice to use during several intra-squad duals and an intra-squad tournament. This program was designed to develop future Trojan stars.

Ninety-five girls participated in the Junior High girls intramural basketball program. The program was designed to familiarize the girls with the rules. Miss Raney stated that the girls worked on the basic principles of dribbling, passing, shooting, and guarding, which are some of the skills needed in the development of future Trojan stars.



The seventh graders and Coach Clyde Hovick had a very respectable season by always placing second or better. Dan Gaunt sparked the 100-yard run and the 880 yard medley relay anchor. Hurdler Scott Wiechmann did an exceptional job during the season as did Randy Brown in the long jump.

Coach Roger Mathias' eighth graders were undefeated throughout all their junior high until the last meet and then placed second to Shenandoah. One new event this year was the discus in which Darrell Paulsen gained the school record with a 133'-2" toss. Another new event was the 660 yard run. Pete Kelloway gave a very impressive 660 yard run at the Creston meet placing first with a time of 1:41.1, also a school record.

Junior High Students

Tune Up For High School

The junior high chorus had another successful year under the direction of a new instructor, Miss Cindi Metzger. Among their performances were the Junior High Christmas assembly and the Atlantic Concert Series.

The favorite songs of the chorus were "One Tin Soldier" and "Up With People."

Practicing diligently twice a week plus much individual effort by Cadet 7 and Cadet 8 bands led to many outstanding performances. Mr. Arlen Ottmar, in his second year as junior high band instructor, taught the bands many of the fundamentals of instrumental music. The most popular song of the seventh grade was "Twin Echoes" while the eighth grade's favorite was "First Man on Mars."

Seventh Grade--A New Beginning

Seventh grade – a time, it would seem, when one could feel very small. Having just come from sixth grade where you were "seniors of grade school," and suddenly thrust into a totally new en-environment where everyone is older and bigger. It is somewhat surprising that when asked for some typical impressions of junior high, the responses are as optimistic as these:

"I think it's better in a way because you enjoy more freedom and you meet a lot more people than you did in grade school."

– Ann Lang

"I think it's alright because you have a little more freedom. When I was in sixth grade, I had to keep quiet all the time but now there's more kids so the teachers aren't always looking at me. Besides all the work, it's OK."

HAVE A PROBLEM?

Need advice or someone to talk to?

Call Toll Free
1-800-432-4165

TOTAL AWARENESS

Expressions . . . Expressions . . . On the last day of school, people expressed themselves like this . . . You mean I can't graduate, because I didn't pass government . . . One year down, three more to go . . . It's unreal I'm graduating . . . If my students are as uncivilized next year as they were this year, I'm resigning . . . only 87 more days until school starts . . . you mean just because I graduated I have to decide what I'm going to do next fall . . . let's go out and get smashed . . . next year I'm really going to try . . .

The people at AHS continually expressed themselves through their words or individual and group actions. Forming opinions, striving for individual goals, and conforming to the fads of others were just a few of the ways in which people expressed their feelings. Many times the expressions of an individual were misinterpreted by others and disputes resulted. Other times individuals did not react in an accepted form of behavior and were shunned by classmates. If everyone expressed himself identically, we would live in a world of harmony, but individuality would be lost and monotony gained. Could this be why the 1st amendment of the Constitution guarantees freedom of Expression?

Expressions, where would we be without them? Well – without expressions we probably would not be here. However, only if man could not speak or move would we be totally without physical or emotional, verbal or nonverbal expressions. With this in mind, we chose Expressions as the theme of JAVELIN '74.

We hope that, through the pictures, we have captured the individual and group actions of the people at AHS as they express themselves. Likewise, we hope that through the printed copy we have captured the expressions of people in their speech. The past year has been like many others yet many things have happened to set it apart from the rest. So many things have happened it was impossible to write about or take pictures of all of them. Each person experienced millions of special events that only he or she will remember; but as long as we have helped you remember a minute portion of the past year, we will consider the long hours spent on this issue of the JAVELIN worthwhile.

Years Of Service

Mrs. Potter

"I will remember Mrs. Potter as one who believed in the motto, 'If it's worth doing, it's worth doing right'. Her cooperation, dedication, and effort equaled success," commented Mr. Eblen.

Upon graduating from Atlantic High School, Mrs. Gladys Potter attended Capital City Commercial College at Des Moines. She was employed the following four years by the West Pottawattamie Farm Bureau of Council Bluffs and the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company of Omaha, Nebraska. The past twenty-two years, Mrs. Potter has served Atlantic High School as secretary to the principal. Outside the working day, her activities center around her many interests which include gardening, sewing, reading, stereo, and the community. Mrs. Potter is the mother of three sons and the grandmother of five grandsons. After retiring she plans to spend much time following her many interests and visiting her children.

"To share what I learned from my own business experience . . ." This has been Mrs. Betty Gourley's goal the past ten years at Atlantic High School. Mrs. Gourley received her B.A. at Simpson College and has done graduate work at several universities. While at Atlantic, she taught shorthand, typing, secretary on the job, office typing and procedures, and record keeping and machines. She has also been involved in on-the-job training, adult education, and various community projects. In the future, Mrs. Gourley and her husband plan to enjoy the farm where their four children were reared and to take occasional trips in and out of the U.S. Her dedication and loyalty is shown by her comment, "We will continue to follow with interest the progress of AHS and the Atlantic Community."

Mrs. Gourley
